GLADYS CLARK,

GLADYS CLARK,

Showed a deeper love. "Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clave unto her." There is a difference. Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possession that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The lov of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little boy or girl, these are the things tha really make life worth while.

Life has put into the hands many of us the opportunity of show ing just that kind of love in these postwar days. A boy comes home crippled and disabled and a loyal weetheart shows her undiminished love for him, even though he can never again be what he had expected to be. That is love. A mother and a father take to their hearts a promising young son who returns from overseas with a shattered nervous system, and give their lives anew to him. One could go on and on with such illustrations, but what we are saying is that it takes more than a kiss and some tears to express real love. "Ruth clave unto her." Such love expresses itself in a III. Life (vv. 15-17). Literature knows no more beautiful declaration of faith and devotion than these words, and nothing could improve on it. Lord Tennyson said of the book of Ruth that "no art can improve on it." And of these verses another said, "We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence so exquisite and thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her devotion" (William Jennings Bryan).

The conclusion of the story finds Ruth married to Boaz, her kinsmanredeemer, and "living happily ever after," as a true romance should end. God gives happy endings. Here we find the right attitude toward marriage, something which needs emphasis in our day. Above all, as we remember that Ruth was an ancestress of Jesus, we see anew the importance of clean, noble, godly living. What will the generations to come be able to say about ou

FIGURING THINGS OUT

Awhile back I was learning Sonny how to handle a shotgun so he could figure out where Br'er Rabbit natchelly was going to be on his next jump. Sonny got the idea mighty quick for a boy his age. Maybe it's because he's noticed how us farmers always tries to do things the natchel way. For instance, it just comes natchel to use Chilean soda to give our crops a quick start and keep 'em growing strong and

Us farmers has been using natchel soda for more than a hundred years. Seems like just being natchel makes it different from any other kind.

Maybe folks won't be able to get all the soda they want this season, but if we're careful with what we get it may do.

'clave unto her." There is a difference. Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possessio that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The love of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little boy or girl, these are the things th really make life worth while. Life has put into the hands o many of us the opportunity of show-ing just that kind of love in these postwar days. A boy comes home crippled and disabled and a loyal never again be what he had expected to be. That is love. A mother and a father take to their hearts a promising young son who returns from overseas with a shattered nervous system, and give their lives anew to him. One could go on and on with such illustrations, bu what we are saying is that it takes more than a kiss and some tears to express real love. "Ruth clave unto her." Such love expresses itself in a III. Life (vv. 15-17). Literature knows no more beautiful declaration of faith and devotion than these words, and nothing could improve on it. Lord Tennyson said of the book of Ruth that "no art can improve on it." And of these verses another said, "We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence so exquisite and thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her devotion" (William Jennings Bryan). The conclusion of the story finds Ruth married to Boaz, her kinsmanredeemer, and "living happily ever after," as a true romance should end. God gives happy endings. Here we find the right attitude toward marriage, something which needs emphasis in our day. Above all, as we remember that Ruth was an ancestress of Jesus, we see anew
